GREETING

Celebrant: In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit.

R. Amen.

Celebrant: The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Spirit be with you all. (or similar greeting)

R. And with your spirit.

PENITENTIAL ACT

I confess to almighty God and to you, my brothers and sisters that I have greatly sinned, in my thoughts and in my words, in what I have done and in what I have failed to do, through my fault, through my fault, through my most grievous fault; therefore I ask blessed Mary ever-Virgin, all the Angels and Saints, and you, my brothers and sisters, to pray for me to the Lord our God.

KYRIE

Missa XVI

Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace to people of good will.

We praise you, we bless you, we adore you,

HOMILY
PROFESSION OF FAITH
Please Stand

I believe in one God, the Father almighty, maker of heaven and earth, of all things visible and invisible.

I believe in one Lord Jesus Christ, the Only Begotten Son of God, born of the Father before all ages. God from God, Light from Light, true God from true God, begotten, not made, consubstantial with the Father; through him all things were made. For us men and for our salvation he came down from heaven,

All bow while saying:
and by the Holy Spirit was incarnate of the Virgin Mary, and became man.

For our sake he was crucified under Pontius Pilate, he suffered death and was buried, and rose again on the third day in accordance with the Scriptures. He ascended into heaven and is seated at the right hand of the Father. He will come again in glory to judge the living and the dead and his kingdom will have no end.

I believe in the Holy Spirit, the Lord, the giver of life, who proceeds from the Father and the Son, who with the Father and the Son is adored and glorified, who has spoken through the prophets.

I believe in one, holy, catholic and apostolic Church.

I confess one Baptism for the forgiveness of sins and I look forward to the resurrection of the dead and the life of the world to come. Amen.

Salus Animarum: The Church’s Fundamental Mission
Persistence pays off. While I was outside on Selby Ave, waiting to greet the set-up crew for last Friday’s choir concert, a car pulled up to the rectory. I inquired, “Good morning, may I help you?” The gentleman responded, “Yes I’m hoping you might have an hour to spend with me for a survey.” Other than once playing telephone tag two months earlier, I was surprised that he showed up sans appointment. But Scripture speaks of persistence— it was the least that I can do. “Sure, come on in.” Called the National Congregations Study, a group of researchers from Duke University is surveying 1,200 congregations nationwide “to document the work, programs, and activities of America’s religious congregations.” Through insights gained from rigorous statistical analysis (data are not tied to specific congregations), they hope to paint a picture of the state of religious life in United States.

We would become part of Wave IV of research in this study that began in 1998. While surely a worthwhile endeavor, as the 122-question survey unfolded I became increasingly intrigued and later perplexed by the nature of the questions. The initial questions were mostly of a demographic nature, entirely understandable, even if some were nearly impossible to answer on the spot, such as those dealing with what percentage of congregants fall into which financial, ethnic or age categories. Clearly, I was in no position to be able to give a precise answer. The questions that raised my eyebrows centered upon our participation in or support of various initiatives, most of which could fairly be described as advocacy for contemporary political issues. True enough, the abortion issue was included.

But I cringed when questions such as the following were asked: “Would you describe your congregation as “pro-life” or “pro-choice”? Or “Would you allow a same-sex wedding to take place in your congregation?” Could someone who “drinks alcohol in moderation” be a full-fledged member of your congregation?” They did ask if we have responded to a natural disaster in the past two years and I proudly shared of your generosity to the Cathedral in San Juan, Puerto Rico. I succinctly answered the questions. To be perfectly blunt, it was eerily sinking in just how few of the questions were focused specifically on the preaching of the Gospel. Only after 61 questions did a biblical reference appear; as it turns out, the books of Scripture firmly, faithfully, and without error teach that the world was created in seven 24-hour intervals. The author periods? This is a topic for another column, but to answer “Yes” or “No” prescinds from the fact that the survey’s designers had one specific understanding of those terms, sharply different from mine. At the risk of sounding petty, my point is not to question the methodology of the research or to get into the weeds about deep theological issues.

God was mentioned in just two of the 122 questions, the other being whether we teach the Gospel of prosperity? Jesus? Nope. Not mentioned even once. The survey effectively presumes that the main ministry of a congregation is community organizing and issue advocacy. To borrow Pope Francis’ own words a few months after his election in 2013: “The Church is not an NGO.” (non-governmental organization). Our mission is simple— the salus animarum— the salvation of souls. While acknowledging that our moral teachings absolutely have implications in the public square, those implications flow naturally from well-formed laity exercising their civic duty. For heaven’s sake (literally), political activity/advocacy is not the raison d’etre of the Church. The Church is the living Body of Jesus Christ.

- In July 1988, after spending hours in the scorching heat examining pottery shards, we were crushed when our guide nonchalantly informed us we had no time to ascend Mount Tabor. A glimpse from the bus would suffice. Not a chance! Two of us seminarians exited the bus— “We’re going up— we’ll find our own way back!” A fire broke out July 25, but thankfully the Church of the Transfiguration was unscathed. A continuing dispute with the Israeli government centers on the lack of a regular water supply atop the mountain.

- Time for a mulligan! The interior photo of the Anglican Cathedral in Rochester (Kent England— built in 604 A.D) must have been photoshopped. Or so I thought. The interior nave has temporarily been turned into a miniature golf course. This is no joke, but an attempt to draw people to the Cathedral for a summer activity. This was the martyr St. John Fisher’s Cathedral. Each hole featured a different bridge along the banks of the River Medway. To me, that’s a bridge too far, way too far.

- The state chaplains for the Knights of Columbus will celebrate a special Mass tomorrow Monday August 5th, in honor of St. John Vianney. Celebrated by Archbishop Lori of Baltimore, the Knights’ Supreme Chaplain, all are invited to attend. Given their schedule, the Mass is at 4:15 p.m. and will include organ and cantor— it will replace the 5:15 p.m. Mass that day. Confessions begin at 3:00 p.m.

- Last week’s concert featuring the boys’ choir Libera was truly outstanding. They sang beautifully and clearly enjoyed themselves. When I went to Hayden Hall to greet them prior to their pre-concert meal, nary a cell phone was in sight. The boys were conversing with each other or reading books; one was solving a Rubik’s Cube. Their director explained that cell phones are strictly forbidden on tour. Good call! No wonder they were so engaging—check them out on YouTube.

- Better safe than sorry! It is always good to remain alert and avoid leaving any valuables visible on your car seats while at Mass. We do not want to be easy targets for a potential thief. We do have Avalon Security personnel present at all of our weekend Masses.

Sincerely in Christ,
Fr. John L. Ubel
Rector

BETHANY HOUSE OPENING
September 2019 – May 2020 Season of Discernment!
Applications are currently being accepted for women interested in Bethany House. Bethany House is a home for women who live in community, pray together, take meals together and discern whether they are called to consecrated life. It is sponsored by the Office of Vocations and is located in North East Minneapolis. Qualities of a good candidate for Bethany House include single women, ages 20 – 27, who are interested in dedicating a year to intentionally discerning a vocation to religious life. If this describes you, we invite you to contact us by completing the interest form at www.10000vocations.org/bethany-house.
VOICES FROM THE ARCHIVES

A priest after God’s own heart . . .

In 1939, Connick wrote to Msgr. Lawrence Ryan outlining plans for the stained glass windows in the south transept: “Saint Peter in the center, Saint Aloysius Gonzaga on the left, Saint John Vianney on the right.” In 1952 Msgr. George Ryan [no relation to Lawrence Ryan] reviewed the files for the transept windows and made his own—and final decision: In the center, Christ—“Whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven;” on the right, Mary Magdalene—“Out of whom seven devils were driven.” And on the left, Saint John Vianney—“Be of good heart, thy sins are forgiven thee.”

Msgr. George Ryan would have heard the stories about Archbishop John Ireland’s devotion to Saint John Vianney. As a young seminarian in Mexico, John Ireland travelled to Ars and met Father Vianney, “a man consumed by the confessional,” already widely known for “his gentle guidance of souls through the Sacrament of Penance.” Ireland kept the memory of that visit all his life.

Later in life, as Archbishop, founder of the Saint Paul Seminary, he spoke to his seminarians: “Live up to the lofty ideals of priestly conduct which Saint John Vianney so eloquently and convincingly portrayed. Be priests after God’s own heart, fit ministers of the gospel, other Christs in very truth. . . . Take an interest in people, in their efforts to lift themselves up . . . talk, exhort, instruct, console.” Ireland talked about the preparation for preaching: “To preach well is to honor God’s revelation. . . A priest should build up a good library and subscribe to good reviews. . . Worthwhile preaching: “To preach well is to honor God’s revelation. . . A priest should take an interest in people, in their efforts to lift themselves up . . . talk, exhort, instruct, console.” Ireland talked about the preparation for preaching: “To preach well is to honor God’s revelation . . .
