PENITENTIAL ACT

I confess to almighty God and to you, my brothers and sisters that I have greatly sinned, in my thoughts and in my words, in what I have done and in what I have failed to do.

Ant.  through my fault, through my fault, through my most grievous fault;

Therefore I ask blessed Mary ever-Virgin, all the Angels and Saints, and you, my brothers and sisters, to pray for me to the Lord our God.

KYRIE

Cantor/Schola New Plainsong III, David Hurd; (10:00) Mass for Five Voices, Byrd

Lord, have mercy, Christ, have mercy. Lord, have mercy.

COLLECT (OPENING PRAYER)

THE LITURGY OF THE WORD

FIRST READING  Jeremiah 31:31-34

The days are coming, says the Lord, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Judah.

It will not be like the covenant I made with their fathers the day I took them by the hand to lead them forth from the land of Egypt; for they broke my covenant, and I had to show myself their master, says the Lord. But this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, says the Lord. I will place my law within them and write it upon their hearts; I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

No longer will they have need to teach their friends and relatives how to know the Lord. All, from least to greatest, shall know me, says the Lord, for I will forgive their evildoing and remember their sin no more.

RESPONSORIAL PSALM  Cantor/Schola  USCCB; NAB

Psalms 51:3-4, 12-13, 14-15  Jeff Ostrowski; (Ganza/Farrant, 10:00)

Ant.  Create a clean heart in me, O God.

Have mercy on me, O God, in your goodness; in the greatness of your compassion wipe out my offense. Thoroughly wash me from my guilt and of my sin cleanse me. A clean heart create for me, O God, a steadfast spirit renew within me. Cast me not out from your presence, and your Holy Spirit take not from me. Give me back the joy of your salvation, and a willing spirit sustain in me. I will teach transgressors your ways, and sinners shall return to you.

SECOND READING  Hebrews 5:7-9

In the days when Christ Jesus was in the flesh, he offered prayers and supplications with loud cries and tears to the one who was able to save him from death, and he was heard because of his reverence. Son though he was, he learned obedience from what he suffered; and when he was made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation for all who obey him.

GOSPEL ACCLAMATION  Cantor  “Orbis factor,” acc. David Hurd

Praise and honor, to you, O Lord Jesus Christ.

Whoever serves me must follow me, says the Lord; and where I am, there also will my servant be.

GOSPEL  John 12:20-33

Some Greeks who had come to worship at the Passover Feast came to Philip, who was from Bethsaida in Galilee, and asked him, “Sir, we would like to see Jesus.” Philip went and told Andrew; then Andrew and Philip went and told Jesus. Jesus answered them, “The hour has come for the Son of Man to be glorified. Amen, amen, I say to you, unless a grain of wheat falls to the ground and dies, it remains just a grain of wheat; but if it dies, it produces much fruit. Whoever loves his life loses it, and whoever hates his life in this world will preserve it for eternal life. Whoever serves me must follow me, and where I am, there also will my servant be. The Father will honor whoever serves me. “I am troubled now. Yet what should I say? ‘Father, save me from this hour’? But it was for this purpose that I came to this hour. Father, glorify your name.” Then a voice came from heaven, “I have glorified it and will glorify it again.” The crowd there heard it and said it was thunder; but others said, “An angel has spoken to him.” Jesus answered and said, “This voice did not come for my sake but for yours. Now is the time of judgment on this world; now the ruler of this world will be driven out. And when I am lifted up from the earth, I will draw everyone to myself.”

HOMILY

PROFESSION OF FAITH  Nicene Creed

I believe in one God, the Father almighty, maker of heaven and earth, of all things visible and invisible. God from God, Light from Light, true God from true God, begotten, not made, consubstantial with the Father; through him all things were made. For us men and for our salvation he came down from heaven,
ECCE AGNUS DEI

Celebrant: Behold the Lamb of God, behold him who takes away the sins of the world. Blessed are those called to the supper of the Lamb.

Assembly: Lord, I am not worthy that you should enter under my roof, but only say the word, and my soul shall be healed.

AN ACT OF SPIRITUAL COMMUNION (5:15 p.m., 10:00 a.m.)

_for those who cannot be present_

My Jesus, I believe that You are present in the Most Holy Sacrament. I love You above all things, and I desire to receive You into my soul. Since I cannot at this moment receive You sacramentally, come at least spiritually into my heart. I embrace You as if You were already there and unite myself wholly to You. Never permit me to be separated from You. Amen.

COMMUNIO

Qui mihi ministret
Gregorian Missal, Mode V

_Qui mihi ministret, me sequatur: et ubi ego sum, ilic et minister meas erit._

If a man would serve me, let him follow me; wherever I am, my servant will be there too._
_Jn 12:26_

RECEPTION OF HOLY COMMUNION BY THE ASSEMBLY

Holy Communion will be distributed by individual sections of pews. Please wait until a Communion distributor arrives at your section before proceeding. Maintain a distance of two pews between yourself and the nearest individual ahead of you in line who is not from your household. Distribution begins at the sections nearest the exits and ends in the center aisle. For Holy Communion in the hand—please extend your hands, one directly over the other, as the Sacred Host is deposited. For those desiring to receive Communion on the tongue, please make your way to the Center Aisle, where both options for reception will be available. All other sections will be reserved for Communion in the hand, so as to reassure any who may be concerned. Furthermore, if any contact is made whatsoever, sanitization will take place immediately before the next communicant comes forward.

Upon reception of Holy Communion, please step aside and consume the Sacred Host immediately before returning to your pew.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Two Continents, Two Natures– One Faith: Christ and Chalcedon

Finally, the controversies about the divinity of Jesus had died down by the time the 4th ecumenical Council was held in 451 A.D. at Chalcedon. But as if often the case, as soon as one dispute is put to bed, another erupts. Granted, Chalcedon is hardly a household name. The ancient city was located just across the Bosphorus River from Constantinople (see map). Ancient Chalcedon is known today as Kadiköy, and is considered a district of Istanbul, a sprawling metropolis of 15 million residents. And yet, technically it is located in a different continent! Geographers tell us that the river is the demarcation line between Europe and Asia. So ancient Chalcedon is located in Asia! Its land was judged to be inferior—the modern-day equivalent of living on the “other side of the tracks.” It was nicknamed the “town of the blind,” which says all you need to know. Why would anyone settle there?

Still, what occurred on this less than desirable ancient maritime peninsula was arguably one of the Church’s most triumphant moments for clarifying and codifying Catholic doctrine. If you caught a train today at the ornate Ottoman-era Haydarpasa Rail Station, scholars believe you likely would be standing atop the ruins of the ancient church of St. Euphemia, site of this council. If this were Italy, its ruins would have been unearthed and turned into a museum—train station or not! More than 500 bishops convened at St. Euphemia in Chalcedon on October 8, 451. They came from all directions. The provinces in the west were occupied by the invasion of the likes of Attila the Hun, but papal legates were dispatched. Though absent in person, Pope Leo’s presence was very much felt through the reading of his famous “Tome,” amongst the most brilliant papal documents ever. That’s why he’s St. Leo the Great!

Floating around in the mid-5th century was the belief that Jesus had only one nature– divine. Thus, his true humanity was downplayed, as if he only acted in a human manner for our sake. Emperor Marcian saw the danger in such division amongst the people. The Council produced a simply magnificent “Definition of Faith” that is required reading by every theology student. We poured over it in the seminary– I remember! It’s just that clear and concise—a “mic drop” moment before there ever was one. In it, Chalcedon referred to itself as “the sacred and great and ecumenical council.” Before you think the folks were a wee bit haughty (“Make Chalcedon Great Again!”), be careful. They knew exactly what they were doing. “Ecumenical” became a technical term– the idea of a broad gathering of bishops from all corners. It was seen as an extraordinary gathering, called to address issues much weightier than any local gathering.

Not every council called by an Emperor was deemed ecumenical. But this one was! The controversy was traced to a monk named Eutyches. Gee, those poor monks caused their fair share of troubles in the early days. In truth, Eutyches was a staunch defender of traditional teaching about Mary as “Mother of God” at Ephesus (last week’s column). Fast forward twenty years, and now he was in the hot seat! He posited that Christ had only one nature (physis), which was both human and divine. Pope Leo actually was against calling a council. He felt that for individual bishops to sign on to the traditional faith was sufficient—i.e., don’t open a can of worms! But a can of worms they got! So, Leo reminded them that “…the evil one never stops trying to smother the seeds of religion with his own tares and is forever inventing some novelty or other against the truth.”

For Eutyches, Christ’s body was that of God’s. Initially two natures existed – after being united in the person of Christ, only one remained. Hint: it wasn’t the human one! Think about the implications. If Jesus really only had a divine nature, then the Garden of Gethsemane (“Father, let this cup pass”) appears little more than play acting, a divine drama in which Jesus plays the part of a man. To be blunt, Leo called Eutyches’ thinking “very rash and extremely ignorant”. The Council fathers took the contributions of Pope Leo very seriously; his letter held sway. In the end, the Council issued this formal definition: “So, following the saintly fathers, we all with one voice teach the confession of one and the same Son, our Lord Jesus Christ: the same perfect in divinity and perfect in humanity, the same one voice teach the confession of one and the same Son, our Lord Jesus Christ.”

Wisely, the Council also characterized the addition to the Nicene Creed discussed in last week’s column as a “seal,” thereby avoiding the awkward discussion as to whether they violated the prohibition of Ephesus to add anything to the Creed. Finally, the Council added 30 disciplinary decrees (canons). This too caused a stir. Canon #28 decreed that a special prerogative ought to be attached to the See of Constantinople. It should “take second place after her” (i.e., Rome). The Roman legates rejected this—there was no justification for it, and Pope Leo refused to recognize it. Once again, papal authority indicates that the See of Rome was not merely first among equals, but had a unique primacy, based upon the role of St. Peter. In all respects, Chalcedon was a most consequential council.

- It was fascinating to watch the Holy Father arrive at the Plains of Ur near the Euphrates River. It is believed to be the birthplace of Abraham. Viewing the 6000-year-old ruins on Google earth is sobering—to describe it as a desert somehow does not do it justice. Yet, here is where Abraham received his call, a call to peace and promise of prosperity. That call is now our responsibility, as the Pope rightly noted.

- Perhaps you have noticed the increased seating capacity in Church. Every other pew is now open for worship. As we slowly move back to normalcy, it remains key that you continue to spread out, especially on the Dayton Ave. side. Thank you for walking the extra distance from the parking lot! This is the best way to maximize capacity as Easter approaches and avoid the need for a sign-up system.

- One of the most beautiful churches I have ever visited is receiving a needed facelift. Mission San Carlos Borromeo in Carmel, CA just received a $1.8 million grant in preparation for its 250th anniversary. California mission founder St. Junipero Serra is buried here. It is deserving of this needed updating, given 300,000 annual visitors.

Sincerely in Christ,
Fr. John L. Ubel,
Rector

PASSIONTIDE

The period following the Fifth Sunday of Lent is called Passiontide. As Msgr. Peter Elliot writes in “Celebrations of the Liturgical Year”(2002): “The custom of veiling crosses and images in these last two weeks of Lent has much to commend it in terms of religious psychology, because it helps us to concentrate on the great essentials of Christ’s work of Redemption.” This veiling of statues and icons stems from the 8th chapter of the Gospel of St. John. At the end of that passage, the Jews take up stones to cast at Jesus, who hides Himself away. The veiling also symbolizes the fact that Christ’s Divinity was hidden at the time of His Passion and death, the very essence of Passiontide.

“Today is the beginning of our salvation, the revelation of the eternal mystery.”

For the first three centuries the liturgical worship of our Lord Jesus Christ concentrated on the feast of His resurrection, exalted by the Fathers of the Church as “The Feast of Feasts.” During the fourth century another fundamental mystery from the life of our Savior, namely His nativity, was introduced into the cycle of liturgical celebrations by the Church. With the celebration of our Lord’s incarnation, the feast of the Annunciation, made its way into the liturgical year.

Originally the Annunciation was considered as a feast of our Lord, commemorating His incarnation. After a proper evaluation of the Blessed Virgin’s role in the mystery of the incarnation, March 25 was designated a Marian feast, when by the “power of the Holy Spirit,” the Word “became flesh” in the womb of the Blessed Virgin Mary, as described in the Gospel of St. Luke. All Christians professed that the Lord Jesus Christ “for our salvation came down from heaven, and was incarnate from the Holy Spirit and Mary the Virgin, and became man.”

Early tradition supported the celebration of the Annunciation. In the middle of the fourth century, the Basilica of the Annunciation was built in Nazareth, on the spot where it is believed that the house of the Blessed Virgin stood. Thus the celebration of the feast of the Annunciation had begun. According to time computations, the Annunciation preceded the Nativity of our Lord by nine months and was to be celebrated on March 25.

The Council of Ephesus in 431 A.D. recognized Mary’s role in the work of salvation, and by the sixth century, the feast of the Annunciation was settled as a Marian feast to be celebrated on March 25, even if it coincided with Holy Week.

Note: In the Chapel of the Blessed Virgin in the Cathedral, the first of four windows is dedicated to Mary, with the words, “The Angel of the Lord declared to Mary and she conceived of the Holy Spirit.” ACSP.
